but he caught Prentiss off his wind, and at the club and throughout the country, not excepting Wall Street, the opinion is that Stillman will not repeat. This is the summary, inclusive of yester-day's semi-final: The Wanderers hockey team drove another peg in the championship cup last night at the St. Nicholas Skating Rink by deat the St. Nicholas Skating Rink by de-feating the New York Athletic Club seven in a hard fought battle by 8 goals to 7. This sent the Mercury Foot players into oblivion as far as the championship is conthis season, although that team played a good game. it was so close, but as an exhibition of hockey it was not first class. At the beginning of the game both defences were weak with the result that five goals were scored in the first five minutes and eleven were scored in the first half. In the second half it was better and then, when the de-fences braced up, the attacks were weak and many opportunities to score by both sides were lost.

There was little team work on either side. McGrath was the mainstay of the Wanderers, as he has been all through the season, and while the New York line was fairly well balanced it needed one strong man to make it effective. Peabody did well and helped in several goals. Denesha played a good game and so did Berry, but they all failed at the critical moment.

The game was fast and the players were tired out at the end. It was not rough. Checks were hard but fair. There was only one penalty for a deliberate foul. McGrath was caught slashing Peabody in the ribs

EASY GAME FOR COLUMBIA. Outplays Yale Five and Retains Lead ni Championship Rad.

Columbia had little difficulty in holding its lead in the intercollegiate basketball race last night when it outplayed the Yale five to the tune of 20 to 8. Columbia went of into the lead at the start and had things all its own way to the end. For a while at the end of the first period the Elis looked dangerous, but it was only a flash, and they were soundly trounced in the last half. Columbia's game, however, was not as Columbia's game, however, was not as fast and spectacular as it has been in previous contests, and the play became slow and listless at times. Both teams guarded to perfection in the first half, but in the second the Columbia team played rings through the Yale defence and scored five baskets from the floor. The guarding of the Blue and White five was impregnable in this period and Yale had few chances to work the ball down the court and into a position for a close shot at the Columbia basket.

this period and Yale had few chances to work the ball down the court and into a position for a close shot at the Columbia basket.

There was little roughness, although both teams indulged in more holding than they should, and both suffered equally in this respect because of the inability of the foul throwers to locate the basket. Between them Reilly, Cobb and Osborne were able to convert only six fouls out of twelve into tallies for their team, while C. Benson, the Columbia captain, was able to get only, six points on twelve chances.

Of team work there was little on either side. Yale showed a good passing game in spots but could not sustain the plays. The lift forwards found great difficulty in getting the ball past the Columbia guards and some dangerous looking combinations came to grief for this reason. For Columbia Meenan and the elder Benson did practically all of the work, although Osterhout at centre played a surprisingly strong game. R. Benson, a freshman on the Columbia five, made a sensational field goal from the middle of the floor in the second half and brought the spectators to their feet.

Columbia went into the lead at the start on foul goals by C. Benson. Yale, however, gradually worked up and was within two points of the local team when Meenan shot a goal that gave Columbia a. 9 to 5 lead at the end of the half.

Yale was no match for the Blue and White in the second period and scored only three points, while Columbia ran its total up to 20. At the end the Columbia team was playing with substitutes in the lineup.

The lithacans gained a five point lead at the start, scoring two field goals in the first minute of play, and although the Tigers at one time out the advantage down to two points, at this was the best that they could do. The first half ended with the score standing 17 to 13 in favor of Cornell.

In the second half the Princeton five was completely outclassed and the Ithacans had rolled their total score up to 31 before Princeton managed to add a point to their tally. Loose guarding and inaccurate shooting marred the Tigers' play, while the Cornell five excelled in both departments, the work of Kaufman and Elton being especially brilliant.

Garden City Player Makes a 63 Ove Palm Beach Course.

PALM BRACH, Fla., Feb. 16.—Walter J. Travis, Garden City, set up a new record for the Palm Beach course that may never 62 in his match against R. K. McElwee in the semi-final of the South Florida champion ship, five shots below the previous record and twelve strokes below bogey. hundred people followed the match and saw the puts holed out, for McElwee was at his pest and pressed the Garden City expert all the way around, being beaten by 5 and 3.

Travis has made several wonderful scores in his life that will be equalled perhaps but the one over the Palm Beach course, which was in fine condition to-day, is con's sidered out of reach of all. He had nine sidered out of reach of all. He had nine threes and only one five, but this was offset by a two. The rest were fours. Travis says he made two mistakes in his round, but the gallery was glad to see this human agency enter into the round, as his play was so machinelike that it seemed impossible to realize that human efforts directed the second shots that were on the green from 180 yards and down. Four hundred yard holes were threes and fours without a slip. The card:

this was the best that they could do. The first half ended with the score standing 17 to 13 in favor of Cornell.

In the second half the Princeton five was completely outclassed and the Ithacans had rolled their total score up to 31 before Princeton managed to add a point to their tally. Loose guarding and inaccurate shooting marred the Tigers' play, while the Cornell five excelled in both departments, the work of Kaufman and Elton being especially brilliant.

Alexander and Pell Defeat Grant and Burt in Doubles

Final. VICTORS IN STRAIGHT SETS

Winning Point in First Set on Double Footfault-Score, 9-7. 6-4, 6-0.

Frederick B. Alexander and Theodore R. Pell retained the title of national indoo doubles champions on the armory courts of the Seventh Regiment yesterday by de-PHILADELPHIA, Par. Feb. 16.—Pennsyl-trania's wrestling team in their initial home meet of the season held Princeton to a tie victory came to the title holders in straight here to-night. Frantz of Princeton of the test and by the score of 0-7, 6-4, 6-0. The conditions called for the best three capt. Mellon of Pennsylvania, throwing him with a half nelson and body hold in 3 minutes 28 seconds. The summary: they put up a capital battle against the champions in a match which was replete with sensational shots, brilliant plays and good points of lawn tennis. The total figures in favor of Alexander and Pell were 126 points to 73, or 21 games to 11.

There was a slice of hard luck for the Pell got the winning point in a double footfault by Burt, who was serving at the time. It was hard lines on Burt, and a majority of the gallery did not quite agree with Benjamin M. Phillips, the footfault umpire, as they thought he acted too hastily But surely had his foot over the line when he served his first ball, but he pulled it back served his first ball, but he puned be quickly as he served the second. Everybody at his side of the net saw him pulback the foot, but no one except the umpire back the foot, but no one except the umpire. explained after the game that he called the footfault on Burt not for touching the line with his foot the second time, but for serving the ball while his right foot was in the air. At this point the games were 8-7 in favor of Alexander and Pell, and they had the advantage point, and the double fault gave them the game and set at 9-7. Whether or not the incident upset Grant and Burt. 8t was a fact that they did not play so well afterward.

score at the end of the first half was in St. Mary's favor, they having 24 points to Velcour's 22.

Dartmouth's Baseball Schedule.

HANOVER, N. H., Feb. 16.—Manager Cabot announced the Dartmouth baseball schedule for the coming season this afternoon. The schedule includes twenty-three games, only eight of which are to be played in Hanover. The Williams and Vermont games come during prom week, and, as last year. Amherst will be played before the commencement guests. The team will take a spring trip around New York. The schedule:

April 12, Columbia at New York; 13, West Point at West Point; 15, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 16, Seton Hall at South Orange; 17, Princeton at Princeton; 24 and 25, Bowdoin at Hanover; May S. Syracuse at Syracuse: 4. Cornell at Ithaca: 9, Lafavette at Hanover: 4. Williams at Williams.

Alexander opened the service, and by consistent smashing his side had the score very soon at 3-0. Grant and his partner took a brace and made three games in succession, bringing the figures up to 3 all. Games apiece brought them even again at 4 all, which was the last of Grant and Burt in the set, for Alexander and Pell ran it out. The point score:
